

FRANCE AND ITALY NOT TO WITHDRAW FOR A FEW DAYS

Expect Two Countries to Remain in Naval Conference for Awhile

NEW LEASE ON LIFE

Unless Success Comes by End of Next Week, 5-Power Treaty to Be Halted

By Harry R. Flory
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
LONDON, Apr. 5.—The expected withdrawal of France and Italy from the London Naval Conference was postponed for a few days today.

Foreign Minister Aristide Briand of France left for Paris this afternoon to consult with Premier Andre Tardieu.
He announced he would return on Tuesday for one last fling at clearing away the obstacles preventing formulation of a five-power treaty.

Decision to give the conference another few days' lease on life as a five-power body was reached by M. Briand, Premier MacDonald and Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson at a long meeting at St. James's Palace this morning. They agreed to devote a few days more to political negotiations in the faint hope of agreement.

Unless success rewards their efforts by the end of next week, negotiations for a five-power London treaty will be definitely abandoned.

Before leaving for Paris, M. Briand declared the French and British points of view on security were closer than before, but this British officials refused to confirm.

Immediately after his talk with Briand, Premier MacDonald went to the Ritz for a conference with Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson and Ambassador Dwight Morrow.

It was learned today that the Italian delegates, headed by Foreign Minister Dino Grandi, hope to return to Rome on April 13 whatever the status of the conference.

Bristol Debaters Lose To Morrisville High School

Bristol high school debating team lost last night to Morrisville by the score of 2 to 1 so far as the decision of the judges was concerned and the number of points scored against them was 5 to 4.

The debate was held in the high school auditorium on the question:
"Resolved: That the Expansion of the Chain Store System is Detrimental to the Best Interests of the American People."

Bristol had the negative side while Morrisville argued the affirmative.

The Morrisville team was composed of the following: Charles, Lucas, captain; Charles Steiner, Kenneth York, M. P. Simons was alternate.

Bristol: William Wischer, captain; William Leigh, Geneva Silber, Jackson Bauer was alternate.

The judges were Charles Robinson, English instructor of Trenton Junior High School, No. 3; William Murphy, registrar, Rider College, Trenton, N. J.; W. C. Kines, principal of Hulmeville school, George Zarr, supervising principal of Bristol Township schools, acted as chairman.

as coaches for the Bristol team.

selections by Cashmer's orchestra, with harmonica numbers by D. Stalone and violin selections by Sidney Singer.

Dr. Raley H. Bell Victor In Suit Filed Against Him

DOYLESTOWN, Apr. 5.—Dr. Raley H. Bell, who has a summer home along the river at Center Bridge, won a victory in the civil court when Leo Scheppardt, of Solebury township, failed to appear to press his suit for damages and suffered a voluntary non-suit, after the case had dragged along for over a year.

Scheppardt's whereabouts are said to be unknown. A raid on his home, where it was claimed disorderly actions had been in progress to the annoyance of neighbors, was the basis for his suit. He charged Dr. Bell with responsibility for the raid.

Dr. Bell, whose home is in New York, and who is the author of many books, has gained much commendation in his home community and throughout the county, for his courageous attempt to thwart and punish motorists and others who raided the beautiful Delaware Valley of its natural beauty.

Strangers and others, before he took up his courageous and energetic fight, were robbing the roadsides and even private lawns of their rare flowers and trees in violation of a State law intended to protect the flora and natural beauty of the countryside.

Glass Door and Window Crash as Missiles Are Hurlled

HULMEVILLE, Apr. 5.—Damage was done at the home of William Vansant, Bellevue avenue, here, last evening, when missiles were hurled through the glass in the front door and a window in the dining-room.

The large plate glass in the door was broken, as were three panes in the upper sash in one of the dining-room windows. The door and woodwork about it was also scarred.

Members of the Vansant family heard the crash and then heard an automobile motor start. When they reached the first floor they found glass about the floor, but were unable to see the automobile that had just left, and which is believed to have been used as a means of escape by those doing the mischief.

Mr. Vansant's sons, who are employed at the Hulmeville Hosiery Company mill, here, stated they believe the action was directed against them.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Congregation Sprung From Group That Held Cottage
Prayer Meetings

(This is the fourth and final of a series of articles dealing with the founding, growth and development of present day Andalusia, Bensalem Township.)

By Staff Correspondent

A side organization of the Masonic order is the Craftsman Club, this being located in Andalusia. Included in the roster are about 30 members, men from Andalusia, Cornwells Heights and Torresdale. Twice monthly are the members called together, the meeting on the second Wednesday evening of each month being one of a purely business nature; while on the fourth Wednesday the group meets for a social time. Those holding office in the club are: President, Robert Mud-die; vice-president, William A. Keaton; secretary, John H. Snyder; treasurer, Walter Kuenmerle. The organization session took place approximately five years ago.

The village of Andalusia also has a building association, known as the Andalusia Building Association. The sixth year for the organization will be finished in July of this year. Over 1,000 shares have been subscribed in the association. William A. Keaton is the present president; with Henry Richardson as vice-president. The secretary and treasurer are John Curtis and Charles C. Markley, respectively.

Much of the social life of the residents takes place within the two churches and the organizations connected with the same. Besides the Church of the Redeemer there is one other edifice of worship—the First Baptist Church, located on Colonial avenue.

The Baptist place of worship is fashioned of stucco, being a most attractive building. This was erected in 1927. Several years ago a number of individuals of the Baptist faith met in the garage on the property of Mrs.
Allen Smith, Bristol Pike, there conducting the Baptist Mission. This, however, was after cottage prayer meetings had been held for some time.
After a manifestation of much interest on the part of a fair-sized group of residents the mission was admitted to the Baptist Union. A steady growth has been experienced by the church, both prior to the erection of the edifice and since that time. There are now two organizations connected with the church—the Baptist Young People's Union and the Ladies' Aid Society.

Heading the former group as president is Robert Scott. Mrs. Charles Cocker is president of the Ladies' Aid, other officers being: Mrs. William Shibe, vice-president; Mrs. Walter Kuenmerle, secretary; Mrs. Lewis Skeen, treasurer.

Rev. Herman Doh, of Holmesburg, is now serving as pastor of the Baptist Church. The Rev. Philip Jenkins, of Philadelphia, was the first pastor to serve the Baptist congregation in Andalusia.

Other things that point to promising growth for Andalusia are the up-to-date facilities. In the line of transportation the place is served by the Pennsylvania Railroad, the Trenton, Bristol and Philadelphia Railway Company; and the Delaware River Coach Company which operates buses on the highway. A number of residents, owning canoes and other small watercraft, quickly make their way to the New Jersey side of the river and other points on the Pennsylvania

Hugh A. Riggs Killed By Fall While at Work

Hugh A. Riggs, 41, met death suddenly yesterday when he fell to the ground while employed on the P. R. R.
"high-line" near 30th and Race streets, Philadelphia.

The "high-line" is the through freight line that is elevated over the Market street "L" and the West Philadelphia yards of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Riggs had resided in Bristol and vicinity for the past 12 years and was a member of the Ancient Order of Hilbernians and Bristol Council, K. of C.
He was a native of Philadelphia, and worked in this section as a riveter.
Due to a scarcity of work during the winter months Mr. Riggs was laid off last fall by the United Engineers with whom he was employed. He took a temporary job with the Vane Construction Company until December 15th when he became ill and had not worked until last Monday when he was re-employed by the United Engineers.

The survivors are a widow and seven children.

IDEAS ARE POPPING FOR GALA WEEK FOR GIRLS

Women of Town Have Much In Mind for Affair; To Further Plans Monday

AT THE LEGION HOME

Rope skipping, handiwork displays, and—sh-h-h—maybe a show—will be discussed for the fine group of girls in Bristol, when representatives of many women's organizations get their heads together Monday night to arrange for a Girls' Week here.

From each of the six wards of the borough will the big sisters and mothers of Bristol's girlhood gather at the Bracken post headquarters to discuss this form of contest and that kind of amusement for the little girls on up to those in their late teens.
Plans galore are to be made, it is whispered about, and they will be carried through if the past records of the club and organization women of the Bristol women is any criterion.

The girls are to be shown this year that they are appreciated just as much as the boys (and maybe more, but don't tell the boys.)

Favorite hobbies will be brought to the fore and each girl will have an opportunity to try a hand at some favorite game or pastime. The boys have "eats," so of course it isn't possible to leave goodies out of this affair for the young women.

Women first dreamed of this gala event that is eagerly looked forward to; women are arranging for the events; and the little women as well as the big ones will enjoy them. Come on, girls. Six or sixty, let's have a gay time.

It is expected that representatives of each women's organization in the town, large or small, will be present Monday evening in the Bracken post headquarters, Radcliffe street, to help plan for Girls' Week. Any organization not having been officially notified is asked to send someone to the meeting.

Selected Queen of May At Ashland College

Ethel Baum, blue-eyed blonde, was chosen Queen of the May at the Ashland College by the student body. The notable part of the selection was the fact that Miss Baum is a native of Ashland, Ohio.
This is the first time that a hometown girl has been picked for the coronation.

HOSPITAL AND SCHOOLS BENEFIT BY COMFORT WILL

An Estate Estimated at Upwards of $1,000,000
Is Bequeathed

WILL IS PROBATED

DOYLESTOWN, Apr. 5.—An estate estimated at upwards of $1,000,000 contains a number of charitable bequests in the will of Henry W. Comfort, of Falls Township, wealthy banker and business man who died in Trenton on March 18th.

The document was probated yesterday at the office of the Register of Wills of Bucks county. The executors are The First Mechanics National Bank of Trenton and William S. Lovett, of Falls township, who lived on the Comfort estate. The will was dated September 20, 1929.

Personal property in the papers filed in the Register's office is listed at $500,000 while the real estate is listed at $35,000.

After making a number of small bequests and leaving the income of a major portion of the income of the estate to the widow, Mrs. Elizabeth V.
A. Comfort, the third wife of the deceased, the residue of the estate upon the death of his wife will be divided three ways.

One-third will eventually go to Friends' Hospital on Roosevelt Boulvard, Philadelphia, for maintenance of patients unable to pay the charges; one third to the Westtown Boarding School, of Westtown, Chester county, to be used in awarding scholarships; and the remaining one-third to the Mercer Hospital, Trenton, N. J.

A bequest of $10,000 outright is left to the widow in addition to the Comfort estate of 325 acres in Falls and Lower Makefield townships, taxes and upkeep free as long as she lives. At the death of the widow the estate is to be sold and the money revert to the residuary estate.

A bequest of $500 is made to the Fallsington Library Company in trust for the use of the library.

To all the employees of the deceased including the foreman and chauffeur of the deceased, a bequest of $100 for each year of service is made, any bequest not to exceed $500.

To the Falls Monthly Meeting of Friends, Fallsington, a bequest of $5,000 is made to be used in defraying expenses in renovating the building now used by the school committee.

A house and lot on Crown street, Morrisville, occupied by Max I. Reich and his wife, Mary E. Reich, is given to them for the period of their lives, with all taxes, insurance and rents to be paid out of the estate.

Other business transacted in the Register's office during the past few days was as follows:

Miss Marie Fraatz, of Jefferson avenue, and a member of the local public school faculty, who has been ill at her parents' home in Haddon Heights, N. J., has recovered and again returned to her position in the public schools.

HOSIERY MILL OWNER SEEKS INJUNCTION AGAINST WORKERS

Hulmeville Plant Proprietor
Brings Action Before
County Court

HEARING NOT SET

Union Members Are Charged With Making Trouble And Halting Operations

DOYLESTOWN, April 5.—Application was made in the Court of Common Pleas yesterday asking the Court to issue an injunction against the Philadelphia and South Langhorne locals of the American Federation of Full-Fashioned Hosiery Workers to prevent them from obstructing the lawful and regular operation of the plant of the Hulmeville Hosiery Company, a non-union shop.

Since Mar. 28, there has been an alleged lockout of a few union workers in the Hulmeville mill, which normally employs about 80 persons. Previous to that time, it is alleged, officers of the union, including Alexander Mc-Keown, president of the American Federation of Full-Fashioned Hosiery Workers, and Emil Reeves, president of the South Langhorne union, approached the mill authorities in an effort to have the plant unionized.

When the officials of the plant refused to unionize the open shop, a number of the employees and the union sympathizers have since tried, it is charged, to prevent the normal operation of the mill by threatening the present workers if they do not join the union.

August Pross, president of the Hulmeville Hosiery Company, and William Plank, secretary, have brought the injunction proceedings against the union. The case will be heard before Judge Hiram H. Keller, although no definite date has been fixed as yet.

SATURDAY, APRIL 5, 1930

ILLITERACY STILL HIGH

Arrival of another census year has revived interest—usually lagging—in illiteracy, which is high throughout the United States and dismally excessive in some sections.

This year's census is expected to show considerable improvement over conditions shown by the 1920 census, which though deplorable were better than in 1910. Though population increased nearly 14,000,000 between 1910 and 1920, the number of illiterates over 10 years of age was reduced nearly 600,000. Native white illiteracy was cut from 3.7 per cent to 2.5 per cent. Negro illiteracy was reduced from 30.4 per cent to 22.9 per cent, and in numbers by nearly 400,000. But the number of foreign-born illiterates increased 113,000 due to heavy immigration.

Improvement is expected from several sources this year. Less illiteracy among native whites is inevitable because of the extension of free schools in backward states. Immigration restrictions and Americanization schools have been at work among the foreign born with conspicuous success. And during the last 10 years the negro race has found its first real educational opportunities on a national scale.

Should the new census figures reveal a remarkable improvement in literacy, that gratifying news should not halt the war against illiteracy. Voters who cannot read are a menace to popular government and the pawns of the demagogue and unscrupulous politician. No voter can hope to cast a ballot intelligently until he or she is able to read.

APPEAL OF BEAUTY

Raymond M. Hood, noted architect, is quoted as saying that among all the arts, including architecture, painting, sculpture, furniture designing and the like, highest standards have been attained in automobile design.

No one will quarrel with him over that point, but the loudest amens will come from the owners of models 12 months old or older. While the remarkable progress made in automobile design is demonstrated on every street every day, it can best be appreciated by the driver of a car of a discarded design.

The automobile has become, besides an absolute necessity and a tremendous promoter of comfort, well-being and prosperity, a thing of genuine artistic merit. And Mr. Hood makes clear the reason.

It was because the automobile designers were not tricked into seeking beauty just for the sake of it. They made use and service the primary objectives and enlisted beauty to enhance it.

That an architect would be the first to discover this was inevitable, for architecture usually demands a reason for the existence of every element in construction, adornment alone not sufficing.

Improvements in design account for countless sales every year, just as mechanical advances do. The car owner who buys a new car every year or two is actuated as much by changes in body design as by mechanical innovations and the desire to have a new car.

Women always look their best to find a man.

Mrs. Frank Carlen, of Fallsington avenue, was a visitor in Bristol, Tuesday.

The Tullytown Volunteer Fire Department was called out shortly after two o'clock Tuesday morning. A motorist saw a fire in an old barn along the canal, and drove to the fire house and sounded the alarm. Upon the arrival of the firemen they found that a tramp had built the fire in the old barn to keep warm. The building had not been ignited.

A meeting of the Tullytown borough council will be held in the meeting room in the fire house on Monday evening. All members are urged to be present and on time.

SYNOPSIS

General Crack, soldier of fortune, has revolted against Emperor Leopold, the instant after having been crowned at Brussels. He vows vengeance for Leopold's dastardly act in compromising Crack's wife, the lovely Princess Eleonora, whom he had to leave the instant after the marriage ceremony. Leopold had ridden, incognito, to Crack's estate, and spent a night with Eleonora. Now the Empire is dismembered, thanks to Crack, who captures the Archduchess Maria Luisa, Leopold's sister, and plans, as revenge, to compromise her. Leopold flies with his panic-stricken remnant of an army.

"Give me a toilet case, and ten minutes; and I will attend your master at his supper," she said.

The valet withdrew immediately, and almost immediately returned with a luxurious toilet case, which bore, as she instantly noted, the arms of Kurland.

Maria Luisa snatched out the mirror and stared at herself, and the bitterest of all bitter thoughts pierced her heart: "If I were a beautiful woman, none of this would matter!"

He did not stir as she entered, nor did the fiddlers take any heed of her; all three seemed absorbed in the music, the waltz, rich music.

Her pride was now stronger than her cowardice. Under cover of the melody, she crossed the

He would be avenged through her!

gleaming floor, and dropped her cap as if she had met him at her brother's court.

"It seems," remarked Christian, regarding her without interest, "a long while since Brussels, and our last meeting after the Opera, eh?"

"Longer to me than to you, Monsieur, I dare say," she replied, faintly, "since time drags heavily with the unfortunate."

"We need not talk of misfortune tonight," he smiled. "Let us, Madame, have our relaxations and diversions—as your brother had in Ottenheim—sweet interludes to the fatigues of war."

He asked: "Where is your brother?"

And she shook her shamed head. "He flies like a hare," smiled Christian; "and like a hare will he be caught at last, exhausted, in his final retreat."

She was stung into some poor reply by the unutterable contempt behind his words:

"I do not know the seat of all your malice," she said, "or why you thus discard all manner of civility with me. God may not forgive you for what you do!"

"I," smiled Christian, "have long ago resolved not to forgive God."

Maria Luisa continued to stare at him.

"Do you remember," he asked with curiosity, "that your hand was offered to me, Madame, last autumn?"

"Will you," she demanded pitifully, "further distress my honour by referring to what is solely a humiliation to my mind?"

"Humiliation!" he repeated. "Your brother did not consider humiliation then; he considered his offer another subtle shift to gain my services; but we will not talk of it, since it displeases you."

"I have been all my life most unfortunate," said the Archduchess, "unmeshed with words, trapped in to pitfalls; in every way scorned and abandoned. If my pride ever had any aspiring, it is cast down now, and forever, I think. Mon seigneur, whatever your spite and malice against my house, is not this enough for you? Cannot you have the pity to let me depart?"

"Where would you go?" smiled Christian; "the weather is wild, the country cracked and ruined."

"Anywhere!" she replied, wildly. "Let me but walk out into the night—return to the barn where they bound me. Anywhere. . ."

"But you would perish. Are you not well housed here?"

"Heaven forgive you for your mockery and for your cruelty! I at least have known no fault towards you!"

"Is it cruelty to keep you here for company?" she smiled. "It is long since I have enjoyed the conversation of one so exalted—an Archduchess: an Emperor's sister!"

Then, discarding his mood of mockery, he added, solemnly:

"Whether you will or no, you shall not go until the morning. Then you may return to your brother and tell him where you have spent your night."

"It is impossible," she stammered, "that you would force me to remain here?"

"There was one thing that I thought an impossibility," he answered. "I had, within a narrow space, a little heaven on earth, and I thought it impossible that it should be defiled, or even spied upon by other men. But that is gone!"

"I have not wronged you!" she murmured, in the extreme of bewilderment and fear, shame and humiliation.

Christian laughed.

"The Caesar's sister—eh? A fair enough piece, by candlelight! Tomorrow you shall go where you will, sufficiently escorted; tonight, you remain with me!"

"And all your camp to know it?" she cried.

"There will be no secrecy," replied Christian, "as there was none at Ottenheim."

Maria Luisa rose and clasped her hands upon her heart. She felt the little metal image pressing into her bosom.

"Why do you keep talking of Ottenheim?" she said. "I do not understand what you mean. Is not your wife there? Why have you left her so long? She is of my age and my helplessness, she also might be exposed to these incredible horrors of war. Can you think of her and still deal with me so atrociously?" She was further terrified by the effect of her words. Christian looked ghastly; she thought that he would faint.

"There is something here I do not know," she muttered, recoiling.

"You will soon know," he replied; "when I send you back to your brother, he will tell you." Then he raised his voice, with a dreadful effort at self-control. "Come, Madame, the supper is set!" And he poured out two glasses of wine.

He drank, filling his glass again and again, as if he toasted her mute anguish, as if he toasted the night when "It is not every night one has an Emperor's sister for company! And I have been very lonely of late, pestered by dreams which seem to come from Hell."

"You have made the whole land a hell," she muttered; "a ruin from which I think none of us can ever arise!"

"Can you help me dispel my dreams?" smiled Christian. "Perhaps with you I might forget, for an hour or two of darkness, eh? Take off your coat," he added, harshly. "The room is warm enough!"

And, as she stood immobile, he made a movement as if himself to divest her of her heavy outer garment. At this, with instant, nervous fingers, Maria Luisa unbuttoned the coat, and dropped it on the floor, showing her long waistcoat and torn, embroidered silk, and the ruffled shirt opened on the bosom. Here she put her hand, driving the silver image into her flesh.

"When the reckoning comes," she asked, wildly, "what will you say?"

"There is no reckoning," smiled Christian; "I hold my destiny in the hollow of my hand."

He had come nearer, and was looking at her harshly.

"You are too tired," he said briefly. "You are overwrought; will you not eat and drink and rest with me and take up these troubles in the morning?"

He put out his hand to touch her, but in a second she was away, and pressed hand and frantically against the smooth, white wall.

"So hateful to you, eh?" he muttered, and looked her up and down. "Did you know I was pursuing you?" he added. "For weeks now, from place to place—always on your track; did you know that?"

"No," she answered, "and why should it have been?"

"Because only through you can I balance my account with your brother."

"What has he done?" cried Maria Luisa; and Christian, gulping his wine, said:

"Ask him to tell you tomorrow."

An extraordinary stillness filled the room. It seemed to Maria Luisa as if the world had stopped about them. Through an opening in the heavy, pale curtains she could see the vivid comet in a rift of the scowling snow-clouds, and all earthly things seemed to dwindle to insignificance.

Allegheny Steel

When you purchase a New Ford car, there are a number of features not obtainable in any car selling near its price. One of these is the metal used on radiator shell, head lamps, door handles, hub caps, etc. It is Allegheny steel. It will not tarnish, it will not rust, it is sold all the way through. It is not just plating. It is expensive, but is in keeping with the other materials used in the construction of the Ford car, which admit no superiority in any price car. As we said, this is only one of the features. Other much higher priced cars are advertising heavily about their non-shatter glass, but the Ford has been equipped with it since 1927. Then there are the Houdaille double-acting shock absorbers and other features, not incorporated in other cars though they are higher priced. And don't forget when you buy a Ford you pay the smallest selling expense or commission received by any automobile dealer.

shore in the spring and summer, enjoying this latter method of travel as a means of pleasure also. The streets of the town are lighted by electricity, service being given by the Philadelphia Electric Company.

Among those holding public office who are located in Andalusia are two constables: George Sykes and Harry Oliver.

A history, even one so brief, of Andalusia, would not be complete without further mention being made of the King family, one of the foremost and best known in the town. Dr. Charles King, who made the gift of the King Library to the Church of the Redeemer, was for almost 59 years a resident of the section. Rufus King, his grandfather, who was born in 1755, was a conspicuous figure in the Revolutionary period. The latter took his seat in the Continental Congress, 1784, and was a member of the convention that formed the Federal Constitution in 1787. He was twice appointed as minister to England, being appointed the first time by President George Washington. The celebrated Mr. King likewise served three terms in the United States Senate, and was

For Economical Transportation

It's wise to choose a SIX!

It is wise to choose a six-cylinder motor—the only way to get six-cylinder smoothness. Six-cylinder smoothness takes out vibration and roughness. This saves motor, chassis, body, passengers, and driver.

The Chevrolet is a six. Yet it sells at a price that anyone can afford to pay. And it lasts longer, because of fine materials, oversize parts and a big, smooth, 50-horsepower six-cylinder engine that always "takes it easy."

With all its six-cylinder smoothness and power the New Chevrolet Six saves gasoline and oil, through modern efficiency—overhead valves—high compression power—latest carburetor—long-wearing pistons—crankcase ventilation—truly cleaner. Thus Chevrolet brings modern transportation within reach of all who can afford any car. Chevrolet economy also means sincerity in manufacture. To illustrate:

Chevrolet valves are adjustable—to save replacing. Chevrolet molded brakelining greatly reduces brake upkeep. The rear axle inspection plate on the Chevrolet means accessibility.

The whole car is full of such evidence that true economy comes from advancement and refinement. There are four extra-long, chrome-vanadium springs controlled by hydraulic shock absorbers. They are mounted lengthwise, in the direction of car travel, with self-adjusting spring shackles to maintain quiet.

Modern low suspension and extra wheelbase give the Chevrolet Six good proportions. The front view is distinguished by the honeycomb radiator. The gasoline tank is at the rear for safety and finer appearance.

Chevrolet beauty instantly says "Body by Fisher"—style, quiet, safety—Fisher composite steel-and-wood construction—non-glare windshield—adjustable driver's seat—deeper cushions—greater leg room—clearer vision—finer fabrics and fittings.

There is just as much extra value throughout. BY ANY STANDARD the Chevrolet Six is the wisest choice in the low-price field... with its six-cylinder valve-in-head motor... with full scientific equipment... with Body by Fisher... with four long semi-elliptic springs, long wheelbase, low suspension, rear-mounted gasoline tank, honeycomb radiator and all the other features of this day and age.

NOW THAT THE UNCERTAINTY IS REMOVED---

The decision of the Public Service Commission on the application of the Pennsylvania General Transit Company for a certificate to pick up and deliver passengers now served by the Trenton, Bristol & Philadelphia Railway Company, and the Delaware River Coach Company, is that such a certificate shall not be issued.

By this decision the Commission adheres to its long-established policy that where an established transportation company is operating, a certificate shall not be issued to a competing company. This is a wise policy, and it was not to be expected that the Commission would abandon it.

Nevertheless, until the decision was officially announced, there was uncertainty as to what it would be.

If the Commission had granted the applicant the certificate petitioned for, the local street railway would have been compelled to abandon service, for the passengers the Pennsylvania General Transit Company sought to serve comprised 54 per cent. of the total traffic of the street railway. The remainder, 46 per cent., is the traffic between the communities we serve—local service—which the interstate bus concern did not care to handle.

Now that uncertainty as to the policy of the Commission and the future of the local street railway is removed, we can go ahead with plans to improve the service.

The schedule of the Delaware River Coach Company will be changed so that buses will be run at more frequent intervals. Additional buses will be purchased, and the territory the coach line serves will be better accommodated.

When the details of these schedules are worked out they will be announced to the public.
